

COOLIDGE CITES ACHIEVEMENTS

Incredible Progress in Economics
During First Year of Administration, He Says

APPROPRIATIONS CUT

Public Employees Reduced Nearly
60,000, Army by 85,000,
Navy to Large Extent

New York, March 26.—The first year of President Harding's administration has been a period of progress, with almost incredible achievement in economics, Vice President Coolidge declared in an address today before the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences.

Asserting that public employees had been reduced nearly 60,000, the army by 85,000 and large reductions proposed in the naval forces, all of which were beginning to show in the government's appropriations and expenditures, the vice president said:

"As to the war, the annual appropriations were a little over a billion dollars. For the last fiscal year they were slightly more than five and one-half billions. For the present fiscal year it is estimated that this will be reduced to somewhat less than four billions, and for the next fiscal year, when which appropriations are now being made, there will be a reduction to about three and one-half billions. The interest and payments required to the public debt are about $1,350,000,000. The cost of ministering to the requirements of the veterans' bureau is about half a billion. The cost of the army and navy is over $500,000,000 and another quarter of a million goes into pensions.

An "Incredible" Achievement.

"If, from present expenditures, there had been those items that arose from the war and the extra amount now being expended on good roads and the army and navy, the present cost of running the government would not exceed the pre-war cost by more than two or three hundred millions.

"This represents an achievement in economics which is almost incredible." Stating that the Washington arms conference proceeded on the fundamental theory of "substituting for the sanction of force in international relations the sanction of reason," Mr. Coolidge added:

"It has been a year of progress altogether worthy of a great people. It does not mean that the burdens of existence are to be lifted from mankind. It does not mean that military establishments are to be no longer required. An agreement to maintain a parity between navies is not an agreement to abolish navies. There will be a great saving of expenditure, but it will not be so much in present costs as in future requirements. These great remedial policies which are being adopted are fundamental in principle. They mean that hereafter a larger proportion of human effort can go into productive activity. They diminish the material waste of extravagance in government and the spiritual waste of distrust in diplomacy. Liberty has taken increased guarantee; reason is more firmly enthroned. Hope and faith are revealed more clearly as the great realities."

WILLIAMS RECORD APPEARS

Competitors for Position on College
Paper Aid Three "Surviving" Editors.

Williamstown, March 26.—The Williams Record was published as usual Saturday, despite the suspension of 27 members of the editorial board and business staff.

The college faculty will appoint an official censor for the annual college smoker to be held next month, today added new interest to the action taken by Dean George E. Howes Thursday night when he informed the Record staff members of their suspension from college until April 15th as a result of objectionable material contained in last Saturday's edition of "The Springfielder," a column of a humorous number of the Record.

The Record's appearance today was due to the fact that the suspension placed on three of the editors, Ernest G. Angeline, H. A. McDonald, and O. D. Keop, has been removed. Angeline and McDonald were ill at the Williams infirmary at the time the humorous edition was published, while Keop was not then a member of the Record's staff. These three, aided by 17 competitors for positions on the paper, will get out the Record until the suspended students' return to college.

AVOID DISPLAY IN DUMPING SEIZED LIQUOR, SAYS HAYNES

Washington, March 26.—All federal prohibition agents have been ordered to avoid unnecessary display in the destruction of seized liquors, Commissioner Haynes said today.

Such instructions, he added, were issued with a view to preventing needless irritation through public destruction of alcoholic beverages.

While in Chicago.

Chicago, March 26.—Federal prohibition agents dumped 250,000 gallons of wine, beer and whiskey into the Chicago river yesterday while several thousand persons gathered along the bank to watch the performance.

The liquor was ordered dumped into the river by prohibitionist Director Gregory despite the fact that Federal Prohibition Director Haynes at Washington had suggested in a long distance telephone call that it would bring undesirable publicity and present too ostentatious a display.

EIGHT BOY SCOUTS DROWNED IN LAKE

Boat Capsizes on Way to Island
and All of Occupants Lose Lives Near South Bend, Ind.

South Bend, Ind., March 26.—The bodies of the eight members of the South Bend Boy Scouts who were drowned yesterday at Magician lake near Dowagiac, Mich., were recovered today. Identification of the victims verified the list of dead as determined last night.

L. L. McDonald, director of the department of camping, New York city, and J. P. Freeman, assistant national director of the Boy Scouts, came to South Bend today to investigate the reports that negligence had caused the accident and they reported that every precaution had been taken for the protection of the scouts.

The accident occurred 60 rods from the shore after the party had left for an island in the center of the lake on which the Scouts were establishing a new camp for the summer. Several trips had been made to the island earlier in the day and on the last trip there were eight persons in the boat. The coroner gave it as his opinion that the boat was overloaded. Scout Executive Taylor and his son were the last to go down.

Fifty feet of water separated them from rescue by W. C. Harper, who had driven one of the automobiles in which the Scouts went to the lake from South Bend. From the shore he saw the boat go down and saw the party foundering in the water. He procured a leaky rowboat and pulled frantically against the rough waters to the scene, only to arrive too late. When within 50 feet of where the boat sank, he saw Taylor go down with his son in his arms after having fought a game battle to stay up.

ALLIED MINISTERS ACT ON NEAR EAST

Turkish Retention of Constantinople
and Appointment of International Commission Proposed

(By The Associated Press.)
Paris, March 26.—The retention by Turkey of Constantinople and a large part of Eastern Thrace; the demilitarization of the territories adjoining the straits of the Dardanelles; the allocation of Turkey, Greece, and that an international commission shall attend to the upkeep of the straits, are proposals made by the Allied foreign ministers after a five days' consideration of Near East questions.

The conclusions are believed to mark a step toward settlement of a question which has been one of the roots of unrest in the old world. The amicable offer of mediation between Turkey and Greece removes the dilemma facing the French of either taking a hostile attitude toward Turkey or breaking with the Allies and also removes the cloud created over Anglo-French relations by the Angora accord.

Should the Turkish Nationalist leaders and the proposed modifications of the Sevres treaty not go far enough, it is pointed out that nothing has been done at Paris which would stand in the way of continuing the negotiations.

The Greek government has accepted of the proposal made by the Allied ministers for an amicable settlement between Greece and the Turkish Nationalists. The reply to the proposal of the Greek government, however, contains no reservations as to the military cooperation.

BILL AMENDING WATER POWER ACT SIGNED BY GOVERNOR

Albany, March 26.—Governor Miller today signed the Robeson bill designed to amend the water power act of 1907 which permits the state to lease its power rights to private owners and license them. In a memorandum accompanying the bill, the governor wrote:

"If it turns out that capital is unwilling to invest under these conditions (established by the new law) it will be necessary to consider the alternative of state development."

At the same time the governor pointed out that the wisest policy for the state to pursue is to encourage development by private enterprise in such fashion as to secure the maximum development and the maximum general benefit.

"This bill," the governor added, "is designed to accomplish that purpose."

46 GERMANS KILLED EVERY HOUR WORLD WAR RAGED

(By The Associated Press.)
Berlin, March 26.—Forty-six men were killed and 109 wounded on the German side during every hour the World War was raging, according to an estimate arrived at by General von Albrecht, a high-ranking official.

Germany's losses totaled in dead, 1,508,345 and in wounded 4,246,779. Men to the number of 13,000,000 were under arms during the course of the war, of whom about one in seven were killed in battle.

German soldier and civilian losses through death caused directly or indirectly by the war are estimated by General von Albrecht at 12,000,000.

TOLD OF OWN ROBBERIES.

Port Huron, Mich., March 26.—Frank Davis, a compositor for a local newspaper, robbed downtown stores at night and in the daytime set headlines telling of his own exploits, he told Prosecutor Henry Baird yesterday.

Davis admitted, according to the prosecutor, a series of 30 robberies.

AIRMAN TELLS GRAPHIC STORY OF DEATH DIVE

"Miss Miami" Plunges Into Gulf
Stream and Five Passengers
Die of Exposure

FIGHTS FOR LIFE

Pilot in Dangerous Condition After 55-Hour Siege in Wind-
Swept Ocean

Miami, Fla., March 26.—Graphic details of the loss of the flying boat Miss Miami with five passengers were given today by Pilot Robert Moore from his bed in a local hospital where he is slowly recovering from the effects of his 55-hour fight against thirst, starvation and the dangers of the gulf stream.

Moore had thrown out entirely the delirium from which he was suffering when picked up yesterday by the tanker William Green, but the attending physicians said there was grave danger of pneumonia developing from his exhausted condition and prolonged exposure.

While the pilot, still shaken with the horror of his experiences, told his story, crews of seaplanes and naval craft were returning from a fruitless all-day search for the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. August Bulle and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Smith of Kansas City and Mrs. J. Dickson of Memphis, who had occupied the passenger pit of the Miss Miami when she took off Wednesday morning supposedly for a 40-mile flight to the island of Bimini. The search will be continued tomorrow.

"We left Miami," said Moore, "at 11:04 o'clock last Wednesday morning in the face of a stiff northeasterly wind. At 11:11, about three minutes out of Bimini, something broke off the propeller. I automatically looked for a ship or a shoal to land by. I saw a fishing smack and volplaned down to the water about a mile away in its course.

Fishing Boat Changes Course.

"I asked the passengers not to be afraid. We were in immediate danger and the craft was drifting near the propeller. The wind, however, was rising and before long the hull of the boat sprang a leak. The nose of the plane began rising. Then a big wave came along and lifted us. The plane turned over and we were all thrown into the sea.

"Mrs. Bulle came to the surface first, then Mr. Smith and Mrs. Smith. Of the three, none could swim. I succeeded in getting them to the overturned plane. Mrs. Dickson and Mr. Bulle had not appeared on the surface. Mrs. Bulle made this discovery.

"Mr. God, my husband, where is he?" she cried.

"I told her he would be all right in a few minutes and dove into the water. Mr. T could not locate either her or Mrs. Dickson. Mrs. Bulle began to weep. I dove into the water and obtained cushions from the plane to use for life preservers. As I returned with them, I saw the body of Bulle floating. I stepped directly in front of Mrs. Bulle and obstructed her view. As the body passed me I noted a wound on his forehead. He must have been killed before he struck the water when the plane overturned.

"Within the next thirty minutes, the scenes changed twice. On the horizon, we sighted the fishing boat. We began to lurch and contemplated being picked up. I was confident we would be saved. In fact I felt like whistling. I believe I did. It kept up my morale.

"And the fishing boat changed its course.

"I can't understand in God's world why he did not save me. I knew I was in that locality somewhere, for he had seen me come down. I could see his name on the boat less than half a mile away as he went on.

"The winds rose during the night, and the women grew weaker. At least twelve times they were swept over, but I swam out and got them and brought them back each time.

"A Terrible Experience

"The next day our hopes rose as we saw other boats pass, but none came within less than a mile and a half of us. I tried to keep up the spirits of the others by telling them they were soldiers. It helped marvelously, but one of the women, Mrs. Smith, became utterly dejected.

"We gathered the steering of Wednesday night after a terrible experience. Mrs. Bulle died Thursday. I saw Mr. and Mrs. Smith clasp in each other's arms and one of them suggested that they close their eyes and jump overboard. But they didn't. Mrs. Smith died in her husband's arms. We released the bodies of the two women and they floated away.

"Thursday, about dusk, approached Smith, groggy, delirious and I strapped him on. At times he appeared rational and asked me what chance I thought we had of being rescued. I told him I thought we would get by, but he said:

"I don't see how we can hold out much longer. Don't you think I had a brave wife?" I assured him that I had never seen a more courageous woman.

"All right, Bob," he answered. "Promise me that if you return you will tell her how brave the facts and tell them the truth about me. You will know as no other how I died."

"He removed three dollar bills from his pocket and asked me to give one to each of his three boys with his dying message.

"I pushed his body into the sea and all alone kept up my courage as best I could. The sun's heat had blistered

UNTERMYER ATTENDS DOCKMEN'S MEETING

Creates Uproar When He Advocates
Reinstatement of Union
Chief Brindell Expelled

New York, March 26.—Samuel Untermyer, attorney for the Lockwood legislative committee, lured a meeting of the Dock and Pier Carpenters' union into an uproar today when he took the platform to champion the reinstatement of August Holstrom, who had been expelled from the union through the influence of Robert P. Brindell, imprisoned leader of the building trades council.

Brindell's friends in the audience resented the attorney's interference, and interrupted his frequently with abusive outbursts. The Lockwood committee's inquirer, however, held his ground in the face of boisterous hostility. He warned the union members to shake off "Brindellism" for the good of themselves and the public. At the height of the confusion, reporters were excluded from the meeting.

When Mr. Untermyer left the meeting, he remarked that "Brindell's influence is not dead," but claimed he had gained a partial victory, as the union had adopted a resolution permitting Holstrom's line and permitting him to join any of the other 12 similar unions in the city.

Mr. Untermyer had announced his purpose of attending the meeting was to find out "if the union is still controlled by Brindell from his cell in Sing Sing prison." He had scarcely started to speak when many of the union men began to hoot and shout at him. He won by a narrow margin when the vote was taken to decide if he should continue.

"It was quite evident," Mr. Untermyer said afterwards, "that it was a Brindell-backed meeting. The keynote of the whole assembly was one of friendship to Brindell. They took the position that they did not care how much Brindell got from the contractors. I pointed out to them, however, that he had even depleted their own treasury."

FOUR MEN KILLED, $100,000 PROPERTY LOSS, IN BLAST

Port Huron, Mich., March 26.—Four men were killed and property damage estimated at $100,000 was caused by a boiler explosion on board the ferryboat "Omaha" J. Conner this afternoon. The explosion shook the entire downtown district. The boiler was thrown 250 feet into a dwelling. The dead men were at work on the ferry. Six persons were injured, none seriously.

The dwelling into which the boiler was thrown was burned to the ground. Its occupants were attending a movie at the time.

A steam radiator was thrown 1,000 feet into a crowd where a funeral was in progress. Mourners were injured by splinters.

NABBED AT THE GANGPLANK.

New York, March 26.—While his wife and two children were descending the gangplank from the steamer Alabama, in from Liverpool today, Ralph S. Snoddy, who had been waiting for them at the pier, was arrested as a fugitive from justice. He is wanted in Washington, D. C., for forging a check for $2,550.

me and the thrust was maddening. I chewed the ends of my fingers until blood came to appease my thirst. I saw bones pass and waved to them, but none saw me. As dusk approached, I began to believe that it was all over. I tied a rope around my neck, but I was so weak that it seemed there wasn't much use. I guess I was unconscious when the boat came after me, for I don't remember much more."

MINE OWNERS FORCE STRIKE, SAYS COMBERS

"Domination of Coal Industry by Financial Interests" Blamed
by Labor Leader

NAMES THE D. & H.

Is One of Seven Railroads Controlling
96 Per Cent of Anthracite
Output, He Charges

Washington, March 26.—That owners of coal mining properties, both anthracite and bituminous, are forcing a general strike in union mines by their "autocratic attitude," and that the reason for their attitude can be found in "domination of the coal industry by financial interests," were charges made in a statement issued today by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. He supplemented these charges with statistics which he declared showed that real ownership of many bituminous coal properties lay in the hands of the steel industry, while anthracite mines were asserted to be "largely adjuncts to railroad operations."

Mr. Gompers asserted that control of the mines was thus taken to an effective degree from the hands of actual operating men, and placed in the hands of financial interests. Coal mines have become merely "wheels in a great profit-making machine," he said, operated by men for whom "all things must give way to profits."

As to the anthracite fields, Mr. Gompers said that congressional investigations and federal proceedings had disclosed "seven railroads controlling 96 per cent of the output."

Delaware & Hudson Named.

He named the roads as the Reading, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, Lehigh Valley, Delaware, Hudson, Pennsylvania, New York, Ontario & Western, and Lehigh Coal & Navigation companies. A result, he asserted, was that "profits from coal operations are not found in the coal mine reports, but in dividend reports of the railroads," where they are "manipulated so as to appear moderate, or at a loss, in order that miners' wages may be retained at the lowest conceivable level."

At the bituminous fields, he said, "the United States Steel corporation controls vast interests," and in southern territory, other "steel interests control vast deposits," making it "impossible for practical coal management to have any effective voice in the making of policies."

Notwithstanding the coal strike impending on April 1, bituminous coal production dropped off a trifle during the week ending March 18, the last full week reported by the Geological survey. The total output during the seven-day period preceding the date was 10,754,000 tons, against 11,115,000 tons during the previous week, and 6,512,000 tons during the week of March 15, 1921.

"In spite of the decrease," the survey's statement said, "the output so far exceeded estimated consumption as to provide nearly 3,500,000 tons for consumers' stock piles."

Railroad Unions Tender Support.

Cleveland, March 26.—Inspired by promises of the support of railroad organizations and feeling sure that the strike will be unimpaired, at least at the start, by government intervention, officials of the United Mine Workers of America today completed the last details of their plans for the coal strike scheduled for April 1.

"Nothing can prevent the walkout now," said President Lewis. "We need the necessary for a successful strike. We need men who want to work and are determined that they shall not."

"The whole matter is now in the hands of the public. More than 400,000 men will lay down their tools on April 1, because the operators refuse to make a wage agreement with them. Men cannot be expected to work when they do not know what they are to get for their labor, nor the conditions under which they are to work."

The union leaders were mapping out a campaign to clean out non-union mines. William G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, announced after a conference with Lewis that the strike would have the moral support of his organization.

Count Heavily on Brotherhoods.

This means that the two financially strongest organizations of the "big four" railroad brotherhoods have pledged support to the miners, as Warren S. Stone, Grand Chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, has already pledged his aid. There are indications that other brotherhoods and many of the railroad shopcraft unions will also support the strike, which also has been pledged by the moral and financial aid of the American Federation of Labor.

The several hundred thousand railroad telegraphers and the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way employees and railway shop laborers have ratified the "protective alliance agreement" in which they agree to support the miners in any wage controversy, and the "big four" brotherhoods at their national conventions during the next few months the miners hope will take similar action. The shop craft unions are reported to be almost a unit behind the alliance proposal.

This agreement, if ratified, will place the brotherhoods on record as asserting their "purpose to apply every honorable method to secure adequate compensation for service rendered," and "when any affiliated organization is made the victim of unwarranted

MOTHER AND SON HAPPILY REUNITED

18-Year-Old Gordon Duffield Ends
Five Months' Stay in Bowery and East Side

New York, March 26.—The seventh study of the "down and out," which Gordon Duffield, 18-year-old heir to $1,000,000, has been making in Bowery lodging houses and East Side tenements for the last five months while the heart of his mother, Mrs. Graham Duffield, ached with anxiety as she hunted everywhere for him, was completed today when mother and son were happily reunited.

Mrs. Duffield said she was so convinced that this would be her boy's last adventure of that character that she would leave for Chicago tomorrow morning and that Gordon, either Monday or Tuesday, would go back to the school at Plainfield, N. J., from which he disappeared.

At present, she said, he was in care of friends and Dr. William E. Burke, principal of the school, would look after him.

He hated to give up," the mother said tonight in tones betraying her relief, "but he was so tired and so much better than I thought he would. He has been in New York all the time but had no thrilling experiences. He worked at odd jobs along the East Side from Brooklyn bridge to the Bronx. I am very grateful for all that has been done by everybody in helping me find him."

"It's all over," she said with great relief.

The hunt for the youth in Bowery

haunts became so vigorous after his mother's arrival in New York last week that the young man was compelled to take extraordinary precautions against discovery, he related. Police detectives got so close on the trail that he was forced to spend the last three nights in elevated railroad trains to escape capture, he told his mother.

The search quickened Wednesday night after Gordon telephoned his mother at her hotel that he was well but not presentable. He promised to come to her when she had arranged to obviate this embarrassment, but in vain she waited. He did not call. He telephoned again last night, saying he would appear. Early today he greeted Mrs. Duffield in the hotel lobby.

"I was surprised at his good appearance," Mrs. Duffield said. "His clothes were shabby, of course, but his hair was neatly trimmed and he was clean. But best of all, five months of precarious existence on the Bowery had not toughened him. He was still the irresponsible, lovable boy he had been when I took him to school."

"This is Gordon's seventh escapade of this kind," she continued. "Six times before this he has run away from home to see the world. This was his most successful truancy of the last, however."

Mrs. Duffield said her son imagined when he came to New York he would quickly make a large amount of money.

"This first three days," she said, "he told me he made only 25 cents."

APRIL MILK PRICES CHANGED BUT LITTLE

Class 1-A Reduced Slightly; Others
Remain the Same—Bordens
Get League Output

Utica, March 26.—The Dairyman's League Co-operative association, announcing that the milk of the 67,000 producers is being offered for sale to the dealers at the same prices for April as for March with the exception of the milk known as Class 1-A, which is milk sold to the consumer in glass bottles, which is reduced from $2 52 to $2 50 per 100 pounds. This reduction is due to the increased production of milk to this time of year.

The April price of Class 1-B milk is $1.75 per 100 pounds. Class 2 milk, which is used chiefly in the manufacture of cream and ice cream, will be $1.50. The price of Class 3 milk, which is used in the manufacture of condensed and evaporated milk, will be 25 cents per 100 pounds more than the market quotations for butter during the month. Class 4 price will be based on the current market quotations of butter and cheese. These prices are all for three per cent milk in the 200-14 milk cans.

Final agreement has not been completed between the farmers and many of the dealers for the sale of April milk, but League milk for April has been sold to the Bordens company, which is the largest buyer.

MRS. CHARLES GRIFFIN IS DEAD AT SOUTH SIDE HOME.

Mrs. Charles Griffin, a well-known and respected resident of South Side, died suddenly at 2 29 o'clock this morning at her home. Although she had been ill for the past six weeks, her condition was not at any time considered critical. A sudden attack of heart trouble was the cause of her death. The funeral arrangements will be announced in Tuesday's issue.

attacks, or its integrity jeopardized, to call a conference to consider ways and means to meet the emergency."

The railroad workers employed in handling and moving cars in the non-union fields are already causing concern to the operators because of the action of 20,000 shop craft employees of the Norfolk & Western Railroad in pledging their united support to the miners' walkout. Officials of the Ohio Operators' Association admit that they had heard rumors of sympathetic action.

ARMY DEFIES DAIL EIREANN

220 Attend Convention of Irish Republican Forces Despite
Orders to Contrary

TO BOYCOTT BELFAST

Six Northern Counties of Ireland
Will Come Under Army's
Ban

(By The Associated Press.)

Dublin, March 26.—The convention of members of the Irish Republican army, held at Shannon House here today, notwithstanding the prohibition issued by the Dail Eireann authorities against it, was in session for more than 12 hours.

A resolution was unanimously passed reaffirming allegiance to the Irish republic. The resolution also declared that the Republican army should be under the supreme control of the executive committee, which shall draft a constitution for submission at a subsequent convention.

Among other matters on which the convention took decisions and concerning which the executive committee will later issue a full statement, was to boycott Belfast and to extend the boycott to the six northern counties of Ireland.

An official statement which outlined the above results of the proceedings added that the delegates present numbered 220, that they represented 40 brigades, as well as four members of general headquarters and officers from eight divisional staffs, and three to four independent brigade staffs.

Meetings Held in Secret.

The meetings were conducted in private. Extreme precautions were taken to prevent unauthorized persons from entering the hall.

The meetings seemingly were only slightly affected by the declaration of Richard Mulcahy, minister of defense, that every man attending would be suspended from the army. It is estimated that about 250 delegates were present. A majority of them were youthful.

Mr. Mulcahy declared today that the convention had been arranged by two of the five brigade commanders of the army.

The silence of Eamonn DeValera, in the face of challenges by the newspapers to make known his attitude toward the convention, seemed perplexing in political quarters today.

Michael Collins, in a speech at Waterford today, challenged DeValera to reveal his views and also to dissociate himself from such "mutinous statements" as were made last week by Roderick O'Connor, director of engineering of the headquarters staff of the Irish Republican army, in announcing that today's convention would be held despite orders to the contrary.

Disorders in Belfast.

Belfast, March 26.—Up to 6 o'clock tonight the total number of persons killed thus far in March in disorders here was 66—50 civilians, three regular policemen, two special constables, and one military officer.

Two men and a girl were killed at midnight last night. The girl was struck by a stray shot fired by the military during the panic caused by a woman shouting "murder" while in an altercation with her husband. The people in the neighborhood, fearing an attack was being carried out, screamed and blew whistles. Military and defense corps contingents appeared and opened fire.

There was much sniping this evening in the network of streets between Grosvenor street and the Falls road. A woman was wounded.

THREE MEN KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Machine Struck by Train on Put-
man Division of N. Y. C., Near Yonkers

Yonkers, March 26.—Three men were killed shortly before noon today when their automobile was struck by a north-bound train on the Putnam division of the New York Central railroad on the outskirts of this city.

The dead are Reuben Levine, 38, and Samuel Levine, 37, president and secretary, respectively, of the Levine iron works, and John Pigot, 30, an employe of the concern.

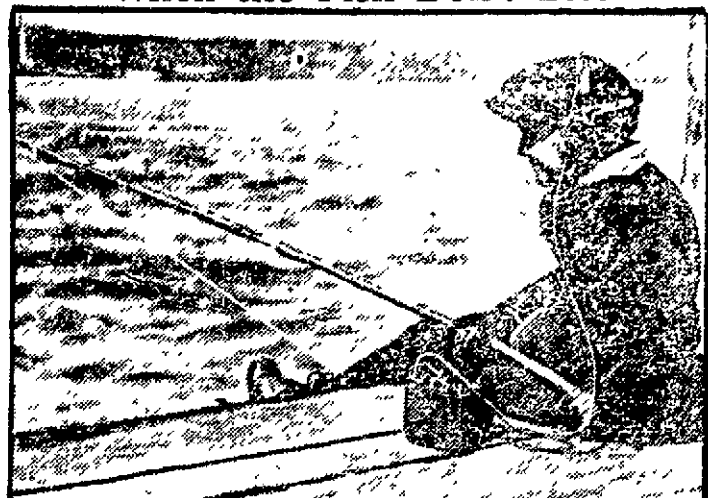

The men were returning from a fishing trip and while crossing the tracks which are unprotected by gates, their machine became stalled. Before they could start it or jump to safety, the car was struck by the engine. The bodies were dragged several hundred feet. An automatic bell alarm at crossing was found to be in good working order after the accident.

Eugene Kirk, engineer of the train, was paroled in the custody of railroad officials on a technical charge of homicide.

RICKARD PLANS TO TAKE THE STAND IN OWN DEFENSE TODAY

New York, March 26.—George L. (Tex) Rickard, sports promoter, who plans to take the witness stand in his own defense tomorrow on charges that he assaulted Sarah Schenckel, 15, spent the day conferring with his attorneys in the sheriff's office, across the hall from Tombs prison, where he has been confined during his trial.

Rickard's attorneys announced that Rick Beach, the novelist, would appear as a character witness for the defense.

Yellow and White Quintet Administers Bad Beating to Roxbury "H" and Oneonta Independents—Game Close Regular Season for O. H. S. Basketball.

With victories over Roxbury High school on Friday evening and over the Oneonta Independents on Saturday evening, the High school basketball team closed, as far as regular games are concerned, the most successful season which a local team has enjoyed in many years. The Roxbury Game.

The game at Roxbury on Friday evening resulted in an overwhelming victory for the Yellow and White. There was not much question as to which team was the better, as the score of 47 to 18 would indicate. For Oneonta, Dillelo and Dush were the heavy scorers, with 16 and 14 points respectively. Hemstreet, playing in Tyson's place, did remarkable work as did also Periman, substituting for Monahan, heavy scoring center, who is ill. Captain Charles played his usually dependable guard game. For Roxbury, Joyce did the best work.

AWARDED $1 DAMAGES IN $100,000 SLANDER SUIT

Taunton, Mass., March 26—Joseph F. Warner, former speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, was awarded damages of $1 in his suit for $100,000 against Lieutenant Governor Fuller for slander. The award was directed by Judge Brown after a jury had spent 21 hours in fruitless deliberation. Warner's suit grew out of the 1922 primary campaign in which he opposed Fuller for the Republican nomination. Warner was charged with having slandered Fuller in campaign speeches, saying he had received public money improperly.

WIRELESS WAVES.

Every one has seen the ripples which spread out in a quiet pond of water when a pebble is dropped and noticed that the larger the pebble or stone the larger the ripples or waves created. The waves are up and down motions of the water. They radiate out in expanding circles from the point where the disturbance is created, and when they strike an object floating in the water the object bobs up and down but does not move away.

Water and air are mediums with which all are familiar. There is another, however, called "ether" which is present everywhere. It fills the universe. If a current of electricity is forced to flow up and down along an electrical conductor suspended above the earth and connected to earth at its lower end, a disturbance is produced in the ether. Waves are created which are radiated in expanding circles unless special means are used to direct them in a given direction.

Water waves travel slowly, but ether waves travel at a speed of about 186,000 miles (300,000,000 meters), or over seven times around the earth in one second. The magnitude of these ether waves depends upon the magnitude of the electric current which causes them. Also, they are subject to absorption, refraction and reflection just like light waves. Their magnitude, therefore, decreases with the distance traveled.

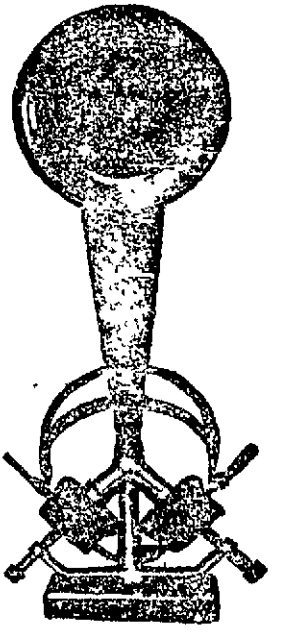

These electrically treated ether waves are called "wireless" or "radio" waves since they do not travel along wires, but are radiated through the ether. Ether being an all-pervading medium, the waves travel through houses or any obstacles in their path with more or less ease. The production of ether waves by electrical means at one place and their reception and translation at a distant place is the whole purpose of wireless telegraphy and telephony.

NEW APPARATUS AND DEVICES

By RALPH BROWN
RADIO ENGINEER, CUTTING AND WASHINGTON RADIO CORP.
THE ADAPTOPHONE.

Many persons are not able to afford the more elaborate forms of "loud speakers" or devices for their radio sets to bring out music loud enough to be heard without wearing ear pieces. The "Adaptophone" however, is simple in construction and inexpensive and allows the use of the ear pieces in connection with a horn. This horn is of metal and is supported upon a base, so that it extends vertically and bends over at the top. It is shaped in such a manner as to give a large volume of sound which is directed outward toward the listeners.

At the lower end of the horn the two ear pieces may be connected by means of clamping rods to the two openings of a manifold. The clamping rods are adjusted so that the ear pieces may be attached or removed quickly at will. Any make of ear pieces, or head telephone sets, may be used, so that nothing has to be discarded or replaced. The sounds from the two ear pieces pass through the manifold and emerge clearly and with considerable volume from the horn. It is claimed that there is no voice distortion caused in the device itself.

The "Adaptophone" is very nicely finished and presents a pleasing appearance.

Local Soldiers Put Up Good Battle at Armory Saturday Night Against Team Numbering Several Varsity Players—High School Wins in Preliminary.

Showing wonderful improvement in both pass work and shooting the Company G basketball team, although losing, made Colgate hustle for the honors in their game at the armory on Saturday evening and put up a very creditable showing against a team some of whose members are considered among the best in collegiate circles. The score was 53 to 32 and clearly indicates the superiority of the Colgate team, although it does not tell the story of the inspiring battle that the soldiers waged against heavy odds.

Company G made the first three baskets and for the first ten minutes of play were ahead of their rivals, who, by the way, were not the Colgate varsity, although some of the men were on the Colgate squad. At the end of the first half Colgate led 17 to 10, and in the second period the wearers of the maroon pulled away from their opponents and shot them in from all angles.

For Colgate Moller and Leonard were the heaviest scorers. Ab' Himmann, an Oneonta favorite, also did some stellar work dropping in four from the field. For Company G Deane and Palmer were the luminaries, although every man played a bang-up good game.

PEKING USING POLICEWOMEN

Feminine Officials Are Employed to Cope With Smuggling by Own Sex.

Peking—Woman police are the latest addition to the Peking force, which has the reputation of being exceptionally good and easily comparable with police forces in the cities of foreign countries. It was found that in the Hutamen Octroi that goods were being smuggled past the police by women, and in order to cope with the situation the ranks of the police in the district were augmented by ten policewomen. No report has yet been issued as to the success of this experiment, which marks the opening of a new field of work for the women of China.

Dog Acts of Politeness.

Boston—There is a French bulldog that is the name of politeness. His name is Cest Toi and he is the property of Miss Alice F. Dunne of 40 Corcoran street, Boston.

Cest Toi got his reputation as an extremely polite canine when he chanced to pick up a lady's coat that was dragging on the floor. He did this so graciously and with such evident enjoyment that he was immediately nicknamed "the Page" by his loving mistress.

Blue Nose. Blue Nose is a popular name for a native of Nova Scotia. Haliburton, in "Sam Slick," gives the following account of its origin: "Pray, sir," said one of my fellow passengers, "can you tell me why the Nova Scotians are called Blue Nose?" "It is the name of a potato," said I, "which they produce in the greatest perfection, and best to be the best in the world. The Americans have in consequence, given them the nickname 'Blue Noses'."

HOLD BIG STORES FOR AIR SERVICE

Uncle Sam Has Immense Supply of Material for Airplanes on Hand.

LARGEST DEPOT IS IN TEXAS

Supplies Worth $50,000,000 Stored There, While Machinery and Equipment of Plant Represent Another $100,000,000.

San Antonio, Tex.—Not much has been said about it, but it is a fact that the United States government air intermediate depot, situated on the outskirts of San Antonio, contains army aviation materials valued at $50,000,000, while the machinery and other equipment that go to make up the plant has an additional value of $100,000,000.

It is one of the largest aviation and repair centers in the United States. The buildings which comprise the government property are of permanent character. The special purpose of maintaining the depot is to keep constantly on hand a complete and large stock of airplanes and their parts for supplying the army aviation service. The warehouses are filled with hundreds of airplane wings and motors. There are thousands of motors. Every three months these motors must be taken out of their boxes, thoroughly sprayed with a form of grease to prevent rust and then treated to a similar coat of oil on the inside of the cylinders and other internal parts. They are so delicate that they must be carefully handled.

Hundreds on Hand. Several hundred complete airplanes are kept on hand in the boxes in which they come from the factory, and these must also be opened at regular intervals, taken out and gone over completely.

In another part of the warehouse is an assortment of tools that probably surpasses in size and value any in the Southwest. Its value runs into millions of dollars. Every tool that will ever be needed in the air service is in the supply section. Spare parts stored in another part of the warehouse represent another huge fortune. This material goes to supply all the army air service in the United States and, in addition, Panama, Philippine Islands, Hawaii and formerly the air forces in the army of occupation in Germany.

The engineering branch is charged with the repair of airplanes used by the air service in the English corps area and in the fields far east as Florida. It is divided into several departments. There is the machine shop, one of the most complete in the country. Then comes the motor repair, fuselage construction, rigging, fabric and upholstery, paint shop, final assembly hangar and the test hangar. Airplanes are built from the ground up at the engineering branch, but for the most part they take the old ones that are turned in by the various fields and rebuild them.

Expert civilian mechanics are employed to do this work. Raw materials are kept on hand for wing and body construction, and whenever a spare part is needed that is not on hand it can be turned out in the shop. Wings, rudders and elevators are constructed in the shops. After the framework is completed it is taken to the fabric shop, where linen cloth is stretched over and nailed down, and then it is painted.

The engineering branch was moved to San Antonio several months ago from Dallas, and took the buildings left by the air service mechanics school. Maj. William H. Garrison is in command of both branches of the depot.

The monthly pay roll at the depot approximates $10,000, and there are about 400 civilians employed as mechanics in addition to the 12 officers. The supply branch is in charge of Lieut. Myron R. Wood and the engineering branch is in charge of Capt. Edward Laughlin.

Geneva—Indication of the straits of many European noble women after the war is given in the experience of the American wife of a Geneva banker who advertised recently in a Munich newspaper for an educated woman secretary with a good knowledge of languages and offered a salary of 300 Swiss francs monthly, in addition to a comfortable home. Thus far she has received more than 1,600 replies, from all parts of Germany and Austria. The applicants include three princesses, nine baronesses and thirty countesses, but the majority are widows or daughters of former high officials.

Snakes in Snow.

Pottsville, Pa.—Notwithstanding the deep snow on the mountains, snakes are making their appearance at a number of places. Charles Roeder captured one alive and brought it to Schuylkill Haven, where it has been placed on exhibition. This is the first time snakes have ever been seen here while snow is on the ground.

Fish in Philippine Waters. The Philippine waters abound in food fishes, but fishing is done only in shallow waters, and the catch is not adequate for the demands of the islanders. Among the fish available are anchovies, herrings, pompanos, sea bass, mullets, milkfish, barracudas, porgees, grunts, parrot fish and soldier fish.

HIGH MONEY RATES CHECK THE ADVANCE

Recent Extraordinary Outburst in Stock Market Speculation Subsidized Visibly Last Week

New York, March 26—The recent extraordinary outburst in speculation in the stock market subsided visibly last week although dealings again were broad and approximated the large total of five million shares. On the surface, price changes among most leading issues were little more than irregular but the undertone frequently suggested a greater diversion of sentiment between the opposing trading elements.

Higher money rates, presumably in anticipation of heavy April interest and dividend payments, bonus legislation in Washington, prospective coal strike and fresh economic uncertainties abroad, were credited with serving to check the advance. Interest in the railway group continued to center around low-priced or junior shares. The investment division was hesitant at best and the cur in the Northern Pacific dividend acted as a deterrent to transcontinentals and grangers.

Sugars, rubbers, tobaccos, textiles and related specialties reacted variably to adverse developments in most of those commodities. Coppers were indifferently responsive to enlarged exports of the metals, and oils, especially the foreign group, proved an uncertain factor.

Bankers reported the best investment market in more than a year.

1920 FARM LOSS BIG

Drop of $3,650,000,000 From Previous Year Is Shown.

Agriculturist Earned Less in 1920 Than in Any of the Last Ten Years, Survey Shows—Suffer Heavily.

New York.—The American farmer, who rose to unprecedented heights of prosperity in 1915 and 1919, earned less in 1920 than he has earned in any year of the last ten. If his income is reckoned in dollars having the same purchasing power as in 1913, according to estimates made public by the national bureau of economic research. Reckoned in actual dollars paid to him in 1920, the farmer's income, as shown by the report, was less than in three previous years, but was greater than in the seven years from 1910 to 1918, inclusive.

The figures, taken from a detailed report of an exhaustive nation-wide survey, showed that the country's 6,450,000 farmers in 1920 earned approximately $7,300,000,000—a drop of $3,650,000,000 from their income for the year before.

The farmers, who represent about 16 per cent of the gainfully employed, have received during the last decade a share in the total national income varying between 12.3 per cent in 1911 and 17.4 in 1917 and 1918, until 1920, when it dropped to 10.9 per cent.

The final figures for the total income in 1920 can only be approximated, owing to the delay in publishing the income tax returns.

"When these figures are translated into terms of the purchasing power of 1913," it is again seen that the purchasing power of the farmers was at its lowest ebb in 1920," says the report.

An official summary of the report adds:

"It will be seen that in 1920 the farmers fell faster than the rest of those gainfully employed. They had further to fall.

"What the results may have been in 1921 can not yet be determined, because, while farmers again suffered heavy losses, the rest of the country also ran into a period of depression."

DIG UP MUMMY OF FAT MAN

Workmen in Philadelphia Find Body Buried in 1792 Is Preserved Like a Mummy.

Philadelphia.—The mummified body of a fat man, an early resident of Philadelphia, is being preserved at the Viscer Institute of Anatomy and Biology as a rare example of adipocere, a substance which is a soft, waxy mass resembling soap. According to officials the man was Wilhelm von Ellenberger, who lived here when it was the capital of the United States and George Washington was President.

In 1792 Von Ellenberger fell victim to the yellow fever plague and was buried in the potter's field. Many years later, in the moist soil of the field, gradually converted the body into an adipocere mummy and when the field was turned into a public square the body was exhumed and identified.

Old, Suly Superstition.

In medieval times children whose mothers died at their birth, were known as fatal children and an idea prevailed that they were destined to fame but also to early death.

A very curious method of courting is adopted by the Zaparos, a tribe of South America. The love-stricken young man goes out hunting and on his return throws his game at the feet of the woman on whom he has set his affections. If she takes the game, it's the fire and commences to cook, he knows his suit is accepted; if not, he knows he is rejected.

Windows Once Taxed.

Just as bathtubs were once legislated against and heavily taxed so were windows in Europe in olden times, classed as a luxury; each square inch of a window being required to pay a heavy tax to the state. Even now there are many buildings in Europe which were built under these conditions where windows are chiefly conspicuous by their absence.

RESPECTED MEREDITH WOMAN.

Sarah Jane Hanford Dies Saturday Morning After Long Illness.

East Meredith, March 26. — (Special) — In the death of Sarah Jane Hanford at her home in East Meredith, early Saturday morning, March 25, following an illness of about eighteen months, the community loses one of its noblest women, esteemed by all who knew her. The space made vacant is one which cannot be filled. She was a useful woman and filled a large place in the hearts and lives of the citizens of the community. This is borne out by the fact that she was generally known and regarded as "Grandma Hanford," which epithet truly became her as a strong and useful character who lived a cheerful and noble life.

For something over fifteen years she was president of the Ladies Aid society and every worthy Christian cause shared in her generous support. The deceased was born in the town of Harpersfield May 6, 1839 and was the eldest daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth Stewart, who emigrated to this country from Ireland the previous year. In 1858 she married David Joseph Hanford, whose death occurred in 1900. She is survived by one sister only, Mrs. Anna D. Wightman, who has lived with her since 1894 and tenderly cared for her during her illness. The funeral will be held at one

"Cats and Dogs"

Isn't your menagerie about large enough?

So many people think they have investments when all they have is speculations

An investment always safeguards the principal and is satisfied with a reasonable and regular return

A speculation recklessly invests the principal in order to secure possible but not probable large returns. And these are usually irregular. That's why so many men—19 out of every 20—are objects of charity in their old age

One man calls these "wild-cat" speculations "cats and dogs"—have you any?

Every little while there's a Ponzi—because, as he says "there's one born every minute"

Most of the people who let their money with Ponzi would have refused to invest in anything safe and legitimate because it would have been too slow

Isn't your menagerie large enough?

THE RATIFIED TREATY.

The ratification of the four-power
treaty by the senate of the United States on Friday is gratifying alike
to the political party at present in the ascendancy, to the President himself
and to Secretary Hughes, and to the people of the country as a whole, but also there is every reason to believe to the nations of the world. The United States, with its vast resources,
might have been able to have endured
the continued drain upon its treasury
for the maintenance of vast naval and military armaments; but for the nations
of Europe, already staggering
under a vast burden of debt, and the financial policies of the world, the treaty is a most important step.
The limitation of armaments, which will follow on the heels of the present
treaty, is plainly evident, was the only way out; and the only nation
which could propose such limitation
with any prospect of the proposition
going through was the United States.
With a courage which all recognized,
it presented a plan to the world, sparing nothing in the stringency of the propositions which it proposed, and thereby demonstrating the absolute honesty and fairness of the undertaking. Had the pact not gone
through, it would have been a worldwide misfortune. That it has gone through is a cause for world congratulation.

As above noted, the limitations of armaments treaty, which will follow
once on the ratification of Friday, will not doubt go through with the slightest possibility and so, though with possibly more discussion, will the other three. The limitation of armaments, along with the Chinese agreements, are doubtless the most important of the group, and their speedy adoption will go far to restore public confidence in the character and efficiency of the senate as a body
which seems to have been unduly
dilatory in reaching a conclusion.
There is, however, one thing which will be cause for congratulation—
which is that the decision reached
was not entirely on party lines. There were 55 Republicans and 12 Democrats who voted for it; and there were 23 Democrats who voted against
it, along with four Republican irreconcilables—Borah, France, Johnson and La Follette; and one Republican and one Democrat were absent.

DEMURRER OVERRULED

One Interposed in the Action Brought by the House of Good Shepherd in Binghamton Against the Rector, Warden and Vestrymen of the Church of Good Shepherd.

Justice Kellogg has handed down
a decision overruling the demurrer interposed by the defendant in the action instituted by the House of the Good Shepherd against the Rector,
Warden and Vestrymen of the Church
of the Good Shepherd in the city of Binghamton at N. Y.

"This," says the court, "is an action brought for the construction of a clause contained in the will and codicil of Eleanor M. Strong, deceased, which were both duly admitted to
probate by the surrogate of the county
of Broome on May 11, 1918."
"The clause in question reads as follows: In the event of the death of
my said husband and my said son,
without leaving children as aforesaid,
then I give and devise the said real estate unto the rector, wardens and vestrymen of Christ church of the city of Binghamton and the rector,
wardens and vestrymen of the Chapel
and House of the Good Shepherd in the city of Binghamton New York,
share and share alike, to them and
their successors and assigns, in fee
simple absolute."

"The sole question raised by the
demurrer interposed in the complaint
is which one of the two corporations,
the plaintiff or the defendant above
mentioned, is entitled to the devise
which by the will is given to the rector, wardens and vestrymen of the Church
and House of the Good Shepherd."

"The court quotes from Judge Allen
in the case of St. Luke's home against an Association for Indigent Memes
as follows:

"The question if the name rather than the description is to control, is,
which one is best and most nearly described by the name? And if the description is to prevail, then the question is which of the two will best
and most closely answer to the description of the corporation by the testator? If from the will and charters of the two corporations, the court
can determine which of the two was intended by the testator there can be no resort to other evidence in the aid
of interpretation."

The court in its decision says: "The Chapel and House of the Good Shepherd was the corporate name of the plaintiff when the decedent made her
will and it seems clearly to show the intent on her part of making the plaintiff here beneficiary when she used the words 'The Chapel and House of the Good Shepherd.'"

The Indian Situation.
The Indian situation is loaded with

THINGS BEING TALKED ABOUT

Need of a Strong Navy.

The first object in maintaining a navy is economy in the true sense—
the avoidance of waste of blood and treasure. If the United States is not fairly well prepared, the next war will be so costly that all the savings now contemplated in naval personnel will shrink into nothingness. Even if defeat is averted, and an indemnity to the victor avoided, the United States will have paid for an efficient
navy many times over. Another object in maintaining a navy is to keep the United States from becoming a theatre
of war. — [Washington Post.]

McGlynn's Fine Stand.

Applause of a sort not commonly accorded an actor is due to Frank Mc-Glynn, whose impersonation of Abraham Lincoln in John Drinkwater's
play has brought him such nationwide fame; for Mr. McGlynn has just declined to be filmed on the streets of Springfield, Ill., and in the old Lincoln homestead, dressed as the martyred president. Mr. McGlynn's note of declination was addressed to the Springfield Chamber of Commerce,
which seems to have fathered the project in connection with several moving picture concerns. The actor
says his respect for the great man
whom he impersonates on the stage
would not permit him to make himself
a party to this other proposition. —
[Philadelphia Record.]

Misunderstanding America.

Stephen Lauzanne, the eminent French editor and one of America's best friends in France, says in his paper, Le Matin: "Our American friends
at this time are interested almost entirely in one thing—the money which is owing to them." This shows how even a Frenchman who is disposed to friendship and one who through his visits to this country has become fairly well acquainted with us, may mis-
represent our position and help to arouse a feeling of animosity that is without foundation in truth. — [St.
Louis Globe-Democrat.]

No "Easy Mark."

Giving away money that does not belong to you is one of the easiest things in all the world, but likely to get you into no end of trouble, both
with the fellow who owns the cash
and the benefactor who suddenly finds himself bereft of a source of easy living. That's what happened to the Wilsonian appointees who handed out cash right and left to Europe during
and following the war, making your Uncle Sam pose abroad as a man of endless resources. So that now when President Harding has locked up the strong box and put the key in his pocket, Europe makes a sour face and calls America a tightwad. — [Harrisburg Telegraph.]

No Disrespect Intended.

MacDonnell's new marble group
"Civic Virtue," intended for City Hall
park, New York, is being vigorously
attacked by citizens who see disrespect
for womanhood in the representation of a stalwart young man spurning two beautiful sirens with his foot. There is precedent also for representing vice
as a monster of frightful mien, but that would be rather out of Mr. Mac-Donnell's line. He deserves sympathy.

TROWBRIDGE MAY SELL STOCK

FARMERS CO-OPERATIVE ASSO-CIATION OF BALMIDGE
MUST APPROVE

Contest Involving Right of Stockholders in Co-operative Law Producing Association Incorporated Under
Business Corporation Law to Sell
His Stock Decided by Justice Kellogg.

Justice A. L. Kellogg handed down
on Saturday a decision that will be of interest to the stockholders of all
cooperative milk companies incorporated under the laws of New York state. He directs that an order be entered requiring the Farmers' Co-operative Association of Balmidge, Inc.,
to approve of the transfer of its stock
by H. L. Trowbridge of that place to Albert M. Shuts, also of Balmidge,
by the endorsement of its consent and
approval thereto on Trowbridge's stock certificates.

The case came before the court in
an action instituted by the plaintiff,
Trowbridge, to enforce such consent.
The attorneys, Henry B. Sewall of Balmidge for the plaintiff, Trowbridge
and Henry D. Owens for the defendant company, submitted the case up-
on a stipulated statement of the facts
and the court renders the decision
without further trial.

The facts briefly stated are that the company operates a creamery plant at Balmidge and selling its milk to the Dry Milk company of New York
and that under Article III of the business corporation law under which the company operates provides that "No
stock shall be transferred without the written consent of the corporation
indorsed on the certificate of stock
and that the corporation shall have
the first right to purchase at par any stock of a stockholder offered for sale." The by-laws of the association
provide in substance that no stockholder of the association shall sell or transfer his stock to any person, firm
or corporation without giving the secretary 30 days notice in writing of his intention so to do and the association reserves the right to purchase
such stock if it desires.

Trowbridge served on October 13, 1921, a notice upon the secretary of the association that he desired to sell
his stock but the association did not exercise its right to purchase and refused to do so. On December 30, more than 30 days afterward, Trowbridge
sold the stock of Shuts and then served written notice upon the association
requesting it to endorse its consent to such transfer on his certificate.

The association refused to endorse its consent, taking the position that it will not purchase such stock itself or permit the transfer thereof to anyone else, stating that it is optional
with said association whether or not
it purchases the stock or permits the transfer.

The court holds that having refused to purchase the stock, the association must endorse its approval, sur-
taining the right of the owner to dispose of his stock and overruling the position taken by the association.

MINERS' UNION IS LARGEST IN WORLD; 515,243 MEMBERS

Earlier History Was Marked by Ups
and Downs, With Persistent Efforts to Crush It; John L.
Lewis Its Recognized
Leader

Indianapolis, Ind., March 26.—(By The Associated Press)—The United Mine Workers of America, the largest single craft labor union not only in the United States but also in the world, has a membership of a half-million men scattered throughout the country, with a few thousand in Canada. John L. Lewis of Springfield, Ill., is its president, and recognized leader.
Union headquarters are maintained
in this city.

"The real numerical strength is 515,243, and is the highest number ever yet recorded," Secretary William Green informed the union's last regular convention of more than 2300
delegates.

The exact number in the union
varies greatly from time to time. Lack of employment exempts a miner from paying dues. For the last year, the average monthly paid-up membership
was given as 442,057, and the average monthly exempted "membership" was 73,186.

The union's growth has been rapid
especially in the last quarter century,
but its earlier history was one of ups
and downs, marked by persistent efforts of opponents to crush it. None
of its predecessors lived a decade.
Secretary Green's compilation of paid-
up membership since the United Mine Workers of America was founded in 1890 follows:

1890	20,912	1906	228,667
1891	17,044	1907	260,740
1892	10,376	1908	252,018
1893	14,244	1909	265,274
1894	17,528	1910	251,330
1895	20,871	1911	251,256
1896	26,617	1912	289,269
1897	3,973	1913	377,682
1898	22,902	1914	333,333
1899	61,887	1915	311,786
1900	115,321	1916	322,911
1901	198,024	1917	367,381
1902	175,367	1918	409,344
1903	247,240	1919	391,339
1904	251,006	1920	376,447
1905	264,950	1921	442,057

The United Mine Workers of America
was formed January 25, 1890 by the amalgamation of the National Progressive Union of Miners and Mine Laborers, and the National Trades Assembly No. 125, Knights of Labor, the two branches having 17,000 members.
Each of the combining organizations
retained its name as a branch of the union until 1894 when such distinction was dropped and the union became known only as the United Mine Workers of America.

Before the fusion of the two unions
as the United Mine Workers of America, several attempts were made to form a national organization of miners. Unionism in the coal fields had its birth in 1891 in the anthracite district, but the move for national unity was made by the soft coal workers and the anthracite field was not brought into a national organization
until after the creation of the United Mine Workers of America.

Until 1861, unions had been only
local organizations, but on January 28,
that year, the first national union
was founded at St. Louis by the soft coal workers of the Belleville, Ill.,
district forming the American Miners Association. This organization was extended into the soft coal fields of Pennsylvania and Ohio, but membership dwindled after unsuccessful
strikes in 1867 and 1868 and this union died in 1869.

Meanwhile, the anthracite workers
had formed their first district organization, known as the Workmen's Benevolent Association. In 1870, its president, John Siney, who is known

now as the father of the miners'
movement in America, negotiated the first joint agreement ever made in this country between operators and their employees. Other successes marked Siney's leadership of the anthracite organizations, but in 1873, he quit to become president of the second national union of coal miners, the Miners'
National Association of the United States of America, which was organized at Youngstown, Ohio, Oct. 13, 1873, by miners from the soft coal fields.

Within a year, the Miners' National Association claimed a membership of 24,000 scattered throughout seven
middle western states, but nation-wide
depression had set in with the panic
of 1873 and the union ceased to exist
in 1876. A year before, the Workmen's Benevolent Association in the anthracite field had been crushed in a strike.

For several years, there was no
national union but organization in the coal fields was continued, often secretly, under the local independent
plan. Such organizations efforts continued until 1885 when the next move
was started for national unity among mine workers, and soon two national organizations were struggling for su-premaccy.

Two soft coal field workers, meeting
at Indianapolis, September 9, 1885,
organized the National Federation of Miners and Mine Laborers, which in its first year started the collective bargaining movement between miners and operators that exists today. The Knights of Labor which began organizing locals in the coal fields, including the anthracite, in 1877 formed a miner's branch—the National Trades

Assembly No. 135 at a meeting at St.
Louis, May 20, 1886.

Efforts to unite these two organizations failed until 1890, one attempt in 1889 being marked by the National Federation of Miners and Mine Laborers dissolving but reconstituting itself as the National Progressive Union.
Although there were two national unions both participated in the joint conferences with operators that marked the collective bargaining movement started in 1885. Finally, in 1890 the two unions joined forces as the United Mine Workers of America.

In the anthracite field, the United Mine Workers of America began work
at intensive organization in 1897, and strikes in 1900, 1902, 1906 and 1912
won substantial wage advances until
now the union claims a membership
there of more than half the workers
though it is not officially recognized
by the operators.

Help Make the Soldiers' Bonus Petition the Biggest Ever!

Sign it yourself; get all your friends to sign it.

Show Congress that the grateful citizens of the United States are determined to grant justice to the men who won the war.

England, France, Italy, Canada and Australia
have paid liberal Soldiers' Bonuses. Our own payment is long overdue, not as a debt—for our debt to our soldiers can never be paid—but as a tribute to their valor and sacrifice.

A small Sales Tax will raise more than enough to pay the Soldiers' Bonus. It will bear heavily on no one. If the experience of Canada and our own Philippine Islands, where the Sales Tax is in operation, is repeated the system will meet with such favor
that it will become one of the approved methods of raising necessary revenues after the Soldiers' Bonus
has been paid.

The New York American and associated Hearst
newspapers have been conducting a nation-wide campaign in favor of the Soldiers' Bonus. Please sign the petition printed below, and get as many of your friends to sign as possible, as directed in the petition.

Petition for Soldiers' Bonus and Sales Tax

We respectfully petition Congress to pass the Soldiers' Bonus act without further delay and also to levy a Sales Tax to obtain the money to pay the Bonus.

PROF. KALLGREN PREACHES.

Colgate University Instructor Occupies First Presbyterian Pulpit.

Timely Christian Service was the theme of Prof. C. A. Kallgren's sermon at the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning. Taking for his text the story of the woman anointing the Savior's feet, Prof. Kallgren referred to the many criticisms which were directed against her for "wasting" the costly oil which otherwise might have been sold and the money used to aid the poor. But the woman, he said, realized that the time to anoint the Savior was when he was among the people, for by waiting it might be too late. The same conception of service should, and in many cases does, apply today. Men and women are needed right now to go out into the world and accomplish great things for their fellowmen, and the church should be in the front ranks of Christian progress.

Prof. Kallgren, who is a member of the faculty of the Colgate Theological seminary, is a vigorous young man and made a very favorable impression upon his hearers, who would welcome his return at some future time. He announced from the pulpit that Dr. Russell is believed to be on the road to recovery. The fever apparently has left him, although he still is confined to his bed.

Farmers and Sportsmen.

Now that April 1st approaches, fishermen should bear in mind the interrelated interests of sportsmen and farmers. The farmer is the owner of his land, but on account of his good natured Americanism does not object ordinarily to the trespass of the fisherman, so long as the fisherman shows appreciation by respecting the farmer's property and occasionally offering a word of thanks as well as offering to restock.

The relation between the sportsman and the farmer is so delicate, however, that it is well to remind the sportsman once in the while of a few Don'ts and Dos:

Don't leave the farmer's bars down or gates open; don't injure his fences. Don't cross his newly planted fields or new seedling.

Don't cross posted land without permission.

Don't shoot at random, and don't shoot at a woodcock unless the background is safe; bullets may glance from a stone and do great damage over a hill.

Don't forget that you are under obligations to the farmer, and that it is because of his good will to you that you are enjoying outdoor life in free and easy fashion.

On the other hand, do remember to show your appreciation by the utmost care of the farmer's property.

Do get word to him if you find anything amiss with his stock.

Do take time to get through or over or under fences without damage to them, and to close bars and gates.

Do remember to keep off his new seedling and new planting when the ground is wet.

Do remember to notify the farmer and make good any loss you have accidentally caused.

Do take time to shoot off crows, hawks, owls, foxes, and other vermin which are enemies of the farmer as well as of the sportsman.

Above all things, bear constantly in mind your debt to the farmer for your pleasure. Pay that debt in every way within your power.

ON THE BLUE MEDITERRANEAN

W. F. Eggleston Writes His Associates in Oneonta Concerning Incidents of a Delightful Voyage.

Though the days of their transatlantic trip are brim full of delightful scenes and incidents, W. F. Eggleston, who with his family and Mr. and Mrs. Alva Seybolt, also of Oneonta, are members of the big Raymond-Whitcomb party, now touring the Orient, finds time to drop an occasional letter to his business associates in the Oneonta Grocery company, in which he tells in pleasant fashion of his experiences on the voyage, and after arriving on the other side of the Atlantic, though written for individual perusal, they contain much which is of general interest and The Star is glad to make a few extracts from the first two of them.

In the earlier letter Mr. Eggleston narrates the not entirely pleasant experiences of a fresh-water sailor when the ocean waves run high, and describes their arrival at the Azores, where going ashore they were met by Providence, R. I., and on returning brought with him a "Tin Henry," which no doubt made the traveler feel at home. "We bargained with him to show us the island, which he did to the queen's taste and then took us to his home for a lunch, which consisted of pines, oranges, pineapples and a lot of other stuff. With a population of 17,000, Porto del Gado is 500 years behind the times. Transportation is by oxen, goats and donkeys, and a very few motor cars."

The groceries of the Azores attracted Mr. Eggleston, and he inspected their stock, though probably without intention of sending a "drummer" to the island. There were not many things recognizable, though he found Quaker Oats, Grape Nuts, Royal Baking Powder, Rat-Nip and Shinola. "They do like American money. Portuguese milreis and English pounds are supposed to go, but they all call for the U. S. A. and say it is the best as they know it is good."

Mr. Eggleston's second letter is written on the stationery of the "Real Hotel Washington Irving, Alhambra, Granada," and recounts the experience of the party from the time of arrival at Cadiz, Spain. In the country of Ferdinand and Isabella he "found beautiful weather and nice sunshine all day, but not very warm, so that we needed overcoats, as there were no fires in the hotels." "The excursionists went by special train, they ran through a country which is the center of the olive industry. The train stopped at all stations from 5 to 10 minutes (no hurry in Spain). In Seville they visited the cathedral, and saw also the tower of the Alcazar, famous palace of the Moorish kings, the tower by Giralda, is reproduced on the Madison Square garden in New York city. "The cathedral is filled with paintings by Murillo, not particularly attractive to me, and it claims also the remains of Columbus."

Regarding the meals in Spain—Mr. Eggleston is a good eater—he says: "They eat no breakfast, but we had fruit, omelet, chops and coffee. The bread and rolls are like brickbats and the butter made of goats' milk but very good." "Four miles out of Seville he saw the plant of Jose J. Lissen, from whom olives sold in Oneonta have sometimes been imported. The railroad on each side was lined with a single row of almond trees, in bloom and very beautiful."

"Milk," says Mr. Eggleston, "is delivered by driving goats up to your door, and milking them while you wait," a process which certainly assures the purity of the product. "In Granada we stopped at the Hotel Washington Irving, which is near the Alhambra and is like the hotel at Seville, only not so good a bed. All our feather beds or something of the sort, and pillows which gave us a cross are very hard and full of nubbins."

"One morning we drove for three hours about the city and you realize here that you are up in the Sierra Nevada 8,000 feet, with the mountains back of us some 12,000 feet and covered with snow—a beautiful sight." "Particularly impressive was the cathedral, a beautiful architectural monument containing the bodies of Ferdinand and Isabella with many memorials of the queen who gave America to the world; but even more so the Alhambra, of which he says that he did not have missed for half the trip."

The second letter leaves the tourists at the Straits of Gibraltar, headed eastward through the Mediterranean. Since that time they have traveled far in the east and a dispatch of Wednesday announces the arrival of the George Washington and its party at Cairo, Egypt. Other letters from Mr. Eggleston will no doubt follow and will be read with interest by all his associates in the big building at the corner of Broad and Market streets, city of Oneonta.

PIED PIPER TONIGHT

First Performance in Which Some 450 Local People Appear—Benefit for Community Association.

Nothing quite so pretentious has been essayed in years if ever, as the Pied Piper, which is to be given its initial performance this evening at the Oneonta theatre and to be repeated tomorrow evening. The ticket sale has been large and indications point to a performance of unusual merit.

Mr. Hoffman has gathered a company of 450 people and the cast is a most capable one. Alfred V. Carr is said to create more mirth than has been witnessed at the theatre in many a day and none should miss seeing him impersonate an Oneonta policeman. Mr. Hoffman has been successful with the chorus and a surprise, a most happy one, awaits the music lovers.

DEATH OF LINUS DIBBLE

Well Known Resident of the City Dies Suddenly at Fox Memorial Hospital Sunday Afternoon—Funeral Arrangements Not Yet Announced.

Linus Onslow Dibble died at 3:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Fox Memorial hospital, to which he had been taken from his home at 451 Main street during the morning suffering from acute Bright's disease induced by an attack of influenza. His illness was of brief duration, he having been sick only since Thursday, and his death came as a severe shock to the family and friends, many of whom had no knowledge that he was even ill. The funeral arrangements had not been made last evening and will be announced in Tuesday's Star.

The deceased was born in Treadwell in 1875 and was the son of Onslow and Eudora (Wolcott) Dibble. His early life was spent in that vicinity. About 30 years ago he was a resident of Oneonta for a short time, being employed then in the grocery store of F. L. Dibble. Twenty-six years ago he moved to Cooperstown and there resided until his marriage in 1918 to Doris Bigelow of Richfield Springs. They then moved to Oneonta where they had since resided. Mr. Dibble had been for many years an employee of the Utica and Delaware Telephone company and held a responsible position here of head of the linemen. Surviving him are his widow and an infant son, Fremont Charles; his father, now residing in Palo Alto, California; one brother, Merritt C. Dibble of 43 Ford avenue, Oneonta; and Dr. Lela D. Dibble of Malden, Mass.

Mr. Dibble was a member of Oneonta lodge of Elks and was a man with many friends in this city and throughout the county. He was a member of the First Baptist church. A kind husband and father and a loyal friend, his sudden demise will be regretted by many, who will write in expressions of sympathy to the bereaved family.

RESPECTED ONEONTA FARMER

Fred M. Bliss Dies Sunday After Brief Illness at Home on East Street.

Fred M. Bliss, a well-known and much respected farmer and dairyman of the town of Oneonta, died at about half past one o'clock Sunday morning at his home on upper East street. His illness, which was of only about four days' duration, was from the first serious, but on Saturday his condition seemed much improved and his demise was not expected. The immediate cause of death was apparently acute indigestion, with heart failure.

The funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. at his late home. His pastor, Rev. Dr. B. M. Johns, will officiate, and burial will be in the family plot in the Plains cemetery.

Mr. Bliss was born May 23, 1864 in the town of Hartwick and was a son of William and Celestia (Chase) Bliss. His earlier years were spent in that township, but in 1886 he came to Oneonta, to the farm which later he purchased and where ever since he has resided. He was married in 1889 to Mary Blend of Oneonta, by whom and by one son, Walter A. Bliss of this city, he is survived. He leaves also two sisters, Mrs. William Prentice of Ilion, and Mrs. Janet Coleman of Binghamton, and three brothers, George W. and Frank N. Bliss of Cooperstown and William Bliss of Toddsville.

Mr. Bliss was a devoted and consistent member of the First Methodist Episcopal church of this city, and had for several years been a member of the Oneonta grange. He was an industrious, much respected man, and the outstanding traits of his character were strict integrity and wholehearted devotion to his family—characteristics which for any man win respect and lasting remembrance. He leaves many friends who will deeply sympathize with the immediate family in the loss of husband, father and brother.

She had for the past twenty years been a great sufferer from asthma, but had been confined to her bed only since Wednesday of last week. The funeral services will be held at 1 p. m. on Tuesday at the undertaking rooms of Bookhout & Kark, on Dietz street in this city. Rev. S. A. Terry will officiate and burial will be in the family plot in the Plains cemetery.

Mrs. Wardwell, who was 65 years of age, was born in the town of Davenport and was a daughter of Isaac and Rosanna (Peams) Quackenbush. She was married in January, 1876, to Mr. Wardwell, and their home had ever since been in the towns of Davenport and Oneonta, and for the past eight years on the farm where the family now resides. She is survived by her husband, one daughter, Mrs. Harry Peams of Elk Creek, and one son, Homer J. Wardwell, residing at home; also by six grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. George Fuller of Worcester. Mrs. Wardwell, who was an estimable Christian woman, was patient and uncomplaining during her long illness and leaves many friends who will sympathize with the family in its loss.

George Hotchkiss.

George Hotchkiss, whose home was with his sister, Mrs. Edna Leggett, of West Oneonta, died at 6:30 o'clock Saturday morning at the Fox Memorial hospital on Elm street in this city. Hotchkiss had been a cripple for the past 18 years. The immediate cause of death, however, was acute Bright's disease, and he had been ill for only one week. The funeral services will be held today at 2 p. m. at the Packard undertaking rooms on Broad street. His pastor, Rev. Dr. B. M. Johns, will officiate, and interment will be in the Riverside cemetery. Friends will kindly omit flowers.

Mr. Hotchkiss was born in DeLancey 49 years ago and had resided in this city and township for the past 18 years, and for the past year and a half in West Oneonta. He was never married, and the immediate surviving members of his family are three sisters, Mrs. George W. Rowell and Mrs. W. J. Rowe of this city and Mrs. Leggett, above named, of West Oneonta; and three brothers, William of DeLancey, Frank of West Oneonta and Charles of Oneonta.

The deceased was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and of the N. P. L. In the midst of affliction he was patient and uncomplaining, and he leaves many friends to mourn his demise.

The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock today from his late home and Rev. L. Curtis Denney of St. James' Protestant Episcopal church, of which Mr. Bennett was an attendant, will officiate. Interment will be made at the Plains cemetery.

Mr. Bennett was born in Delhi in 1857 and was the son of Charles and Abbie (Law) Bennett. Nearly all of his life was spent in his native village, he having moved to Oneonta about 12 years ago. In 1882 he was married to Louise Brunk of Davenport. Besides his widow, he is survived by three sons, Richard, Robert and Arthur Bennett, all of Oneonta, five daughters, Mrs. Grace Brooks of Binghamton, Mrs. Leroy Sherwood and Mrs. John Cosby of Bridgeport, Conn., Miss Maxine Bennett of Newark, N. MARRIED IN NEW YORK

Hannah Helen Congdon and George Bernard Benedict, well known local young people, quietly wedded in New York City on March 21.

Friends in Oneonta have received announcements of the marriage in New York City on March 21 of Hannah Helen Congdon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Congdon, 8 Fifth street, to George Bernard Benedict, a brother of Mrs. Wendell R. Morgan of 23 Watkins avenue and for several years a resident of this city. The wedding, which was attended by only a small number of guests, all close friends of the bride and groom, took place on the evening of the bride's birthday and in her apartment at 10½ Grove street, Greenwich village. The ceremony was performed by Rev. William Gordon Thompson, chaplain of St. Luke's home, and father of one of Mr. Benedict's fraternity brothers. Mrs. Louise Dorr gave the bride away.

The bride was graduated from the Oneonta High school with the class of 1917 and completed her education at Syracuse and Columbia universities. She was for some time connected with the New York Drama league and is now acting as private secretary in the building of the Methodist Book Publishing company at 150 Fifth avenue. A young lady of rare charm and of many accomplishments, she has many friends in this city who will extend hearty congratulations and wish her much happiness.

Mr. Benedict was graduated from the Oneonta High school in 1916 and since that time has been a student at Columbia university. He received the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1920 and is now in the engineering school, from which he will graduate in 1923. He is a member of Delta Tau Delta, a national college fraternity, and of the honorary engineering fraternity, Theta Tau. He was also a member of the Columbia water polo team of 1920. Intellectually champion of that year, Mr. Benedict has many friends in Oneonta, where he lived with his sister, Mrs. Morgan, for several years and which he still calls his home, whose good wishes will be extended to him.

Mr. and Mrs. Benedict will continue their studies as before and in 1923, at the conclusion of Mr. Benedict's engineering course, will go to South America, where he will follow his profession. Mr. Benedict is well qualified for work in a Latin country as he spent several years of his life in Porto Rico and speaks Spanish fluently and that he will be a success in his chosen field of engineering none who know him will doubt.

ONLY ONE GUIDE ROCK

Cablegram Sent From Calcutta by Missionary Reaches Destination Without Further Direction.

Guide Rock, Neb., March 25.—An obliging cable office manager at Calcutta, India, thumbing over the rate chart determining toll charges for cablegrams, told Miss Ethel Whiting, a Guide Rock missionary, that she could save a bit of money by eliminating the name of the state and country from the address on her message, being filed to her parents notifying them of her journey home. Smacking of the unusual, Miss Whiting asked why. The manager informed her that his records showed but one Guide Rock in the world.

So, "Webster county, Nebraska," was stricken from the address, although Miss Whiting stated upon her arrival here that she gambled with her sporting instinct over accepting the manager's suggestion. The message, however, reached her parents in record time.

Guide Rock received its christening from a large rock that can be seen for many miles. Great trains of travelers who, in the early days, were making their way to the gold fields or the new west, were told to watch for this rock as it was "location" point for the trails going to the north or south.

CONVICT BINGHAMTON SLAYER

Harry Santanello Found Guilty of First Degree Murder for Shooting Fellow Countryman on January 4.

Binghamton, March 26.—Harry Santanello was convicted of murder in the first degree for shooting Antonio Platto on Henry street on the afternoon of January 4 in Supreme Court Saturday morning, when a jury that had been considering the evidence since 10:30 a. m. Friday announced its decision.

The evidence showed that Santanello crossed the street and shot down Platto while his victim was talking with a woman.

Santanello introduced evidence to show the existence of a Camorra organization in this city which had terrorized him to such an extent that fearing Platto was seeking his life he shot to protect himself.

Although there has been more than a dozen murder trials in Broome county, this is the first first degree verdict rendered in this county in 20 years.

TEXAN'S INCOME IS $66 A MINUTE

Colonel Humphreys Gives John D. Run for His Money.

SUCCESS COMES IN A YEAR

The Colonel, Who Is Now the Largest Oil Producer in the Mexia Field, Has Accomplished or Developed His Enormous Income Within the Short Space of Twelve Months—Is Producing at the Rate of 22,000,000 Barrels of Crude Oil Yearly.

Col. A. E. Humphreys of Mexia, Tex., promises to give John D. Rockefeller a "run for his money." The colonel, a year ago needing money to develop his first well, now is getting an income of $36,000,000 yearly and hasn't reached his limit.

The Humphreys interests in the Mexia wells today are producing nearly four times the crude oil daily that is being produced by the entire state of Pennsylvania.

The United States geological survey gave Pennsylvania's production for the month as 550,000 barrels, or a total of 7,000,000 barrels for 1921.

According to Colonel Humphreys, the oil actually run to storage and the tank car shipments from his company for the 24 hours ending at seven o'clock one morning recently amounted to 60,700 barrels, a rate of more than 22,000,000 barrels yearly.

This month the Humphreys companies will produce in the neighborhood of 2,000,000 barrels of crude. The potential production today is greatly in excess of the amount of oil actually moved.

Income $100,000 a Day.

"Within sixty days the company's production," said Colonel Humphreys, "will be 100,000 barrels daily, and within four months it should be above 150,000 barrels. The oil actually moved from our wells for every day of the new year has been more than 50,000 barrels, with several inside producing wells 'pinched in.'"

The income for the Humphreys interests today is at a rate of approximately $100,000 every 24 hours, more than $3,000,000 every 30 days, or more than $36,000,000 yearly.

To realize more fully just what tremendous income this is, just imagine that for each hour of the night and day you were receiving $4,000, which is more than $66 every minute. One scarcely could blame the colonel for taking a few weeks off for a trip to Cuba, the Panama canal and a fishing trip on the coast of Florida.

He has accomplished or developed all this income within the short space of twelve months. A year ago the colonel was bending his energy and that of his then small organization to obtain leases covering the structure on which he now is getting this large production. His work was so well done that today, as the structure is being drilled by the bit of the drill, he owns more than 80 per cent of the producing area of the Mexia field.

Price and Production.

From the business side of the producing end of the oil industry the important thing is that of knowing in advance just what you may expect in the way of price for the crude produced. This Colonel Humphreys has fixed to the extent of 33,000,000 barrels, which he sold to the Standard and Sinclair interests at a fixed price of $1.50 a barrel. That will amount to almost $50,000,000 at the present rate of production.

In addition to that 33,000,000 barrels, the colonel has contracted to deliver to the Pure Oil company a maximum of 20,000 barrels daily, which gives an additional outlet for more than 7,000,000 barrels of crude this year. And it's all at a price not less than $1.50 a barrel.

Preparations are under way to care for this oil. The Prairie Oil & Gas company, the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing agency and the Humphreys Pure Oil Pipe Line company have under construction tankage to store more than 15,000,000 barrels of crude. The Pure Oil company is shipping by tank car to the Gulf coast an average daily of 15,000 barrels. There it is loaded in tankers, shipped to Marcus Hook, Pa., and put in storage.

TEXAS HOCH BAD STUFF

Lye, Cockroaches and Rodents Enter into Composition of Moonshine.

Lye, fusel oil and wood alcohol are not the only poisonous substances in bootleg whisky, according to Deputy Sheriff Frank Hampe. Hampe, Harris county deputy, who claims the Texas still-capturing championship, is considered the local bootleg authority. "Not only do fusel oil and lye exist in poison moonshine whisky, but frequently cockroaches, mice and wood insects go into the deadly concoction," Hampe said. "Barrels used for fermenting mash are left uncovered," according to Hampe. "This allows the rodents and insects to fall in and die. Moonshiners make no efforts to take the dead animals and bugs out." A dead pig was found in a barrel of mash destroyed on one of his raids, Hampe asserted.

Washington.—The department of interior of the Canadian government is making plans for the organization of a scientific expedition into the Arctic region next summer to explore Ellesmere land.

A report received states that nominally Ellesmere Land belongs to Canada, but owing to the abundance of game and whale fishing there, Denmark has cast a longing eye upon it and that Americans also have been attracted to the new country.

For these reasons, it is declared, Canada will establish a strong cordon of mounted police to stop all speculation and exploitation and establish Canadian ownership in fact as well as in letter.
